

Bubuyog and the Big Book

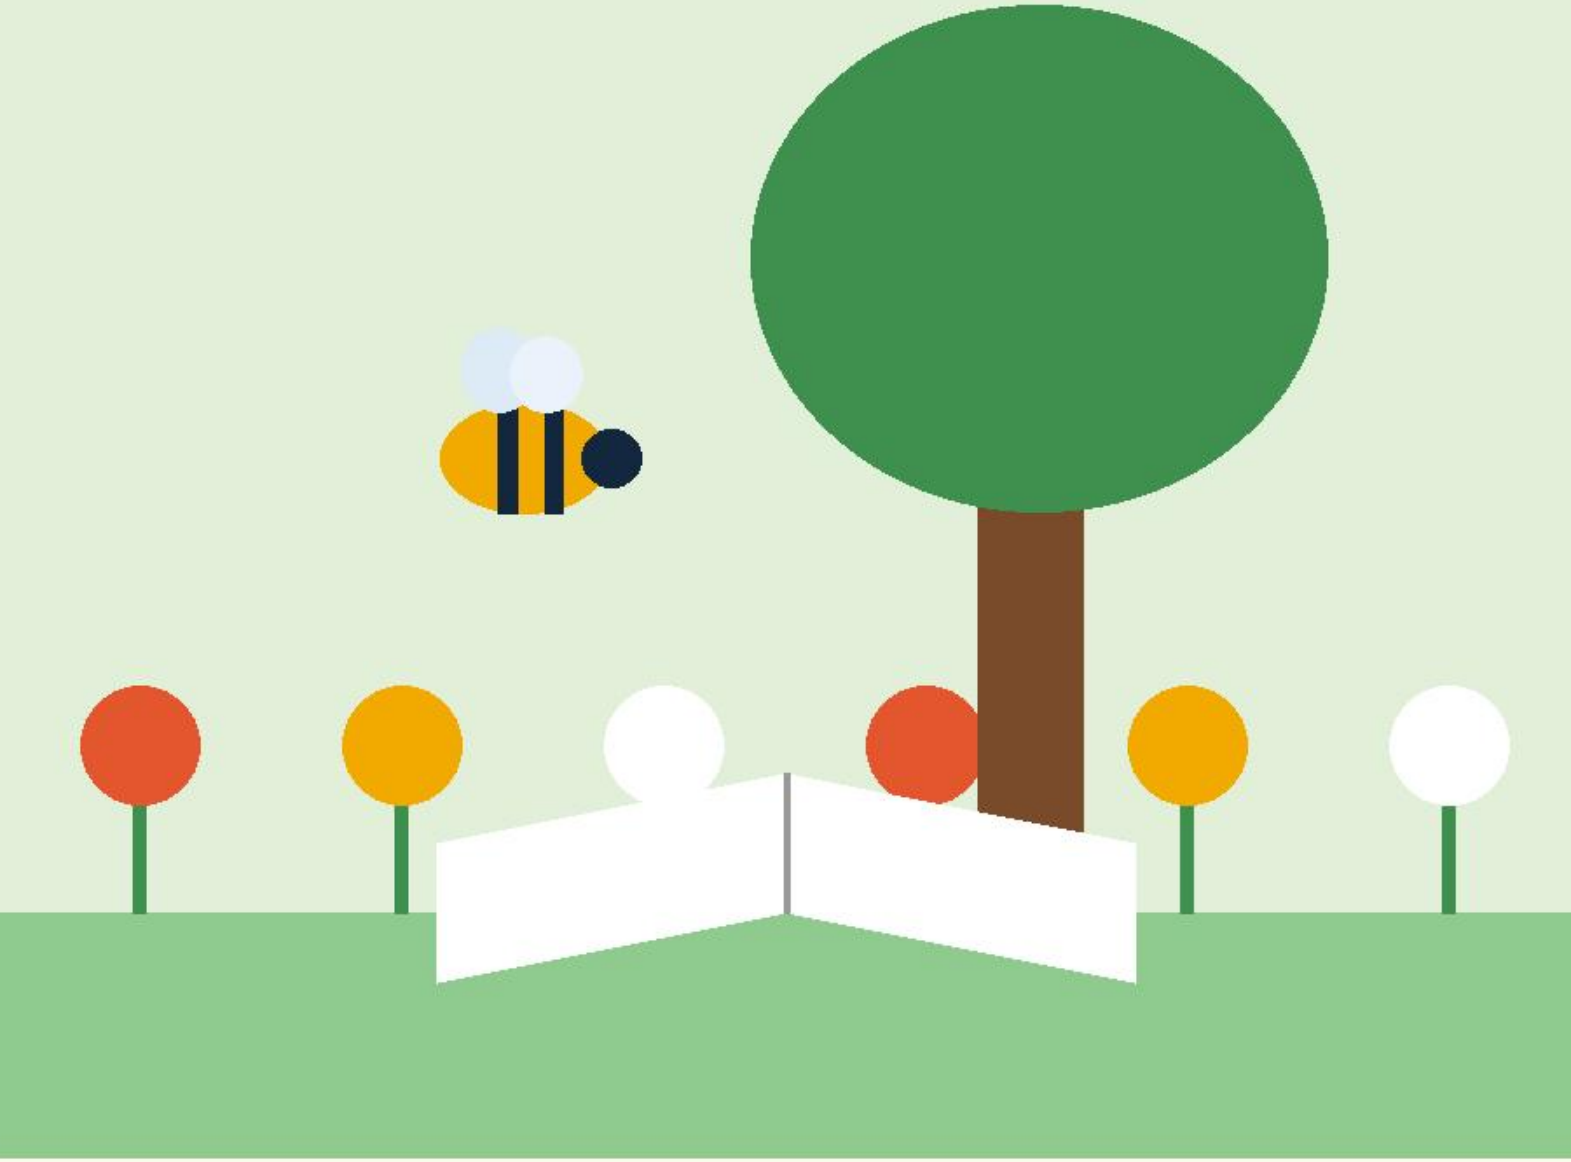

A sample storybook for LRMS-HIVE

In a garden in Agusan del Norte lived a little bee named Bubuyog.

Every morning, Bubuyog visited the gumamela, the santan and the sampaguita.

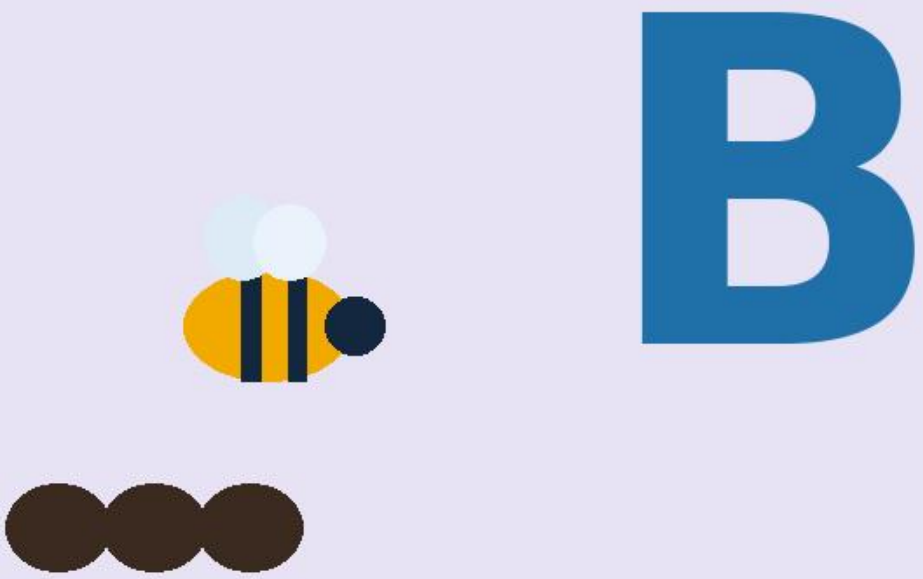

One day, she found a big book lying open under the mango tree.

"What are these little marks?" she buzzed. They were letters!

Her friend Langgam the ant knew a few. "This is B, like Bubuyog!"

Day by day, they learned more letters, then words, then whole sentences.

Soon Bubuyog could read the story of the river, the mountains and the sea.

Now she reads to all the bees in the hive — and the hive is never bored!
